Dear Steve,

Thank you so much for a wonderful performance (two, in fact) of Charles Lindbergh: The Lone Eagle. I think the fact that 350 high schools students were attentive and engaged is a great sign of a professional performance.

When questions from the audience (post performance) are directed to "Charles Lindbergh" in the second person, you know Steve Carroll has successfully convinced the audience that he is Charles Lindbergh. The play Charles Lindbergh: The Lone Eagle was a tremendous one-man show, very professionally performed, educationally enriching (SOL's addressed for a high school audience) and most convincing to the audience. It is a winner!

Thanks, again, Steve, for being a part of the Southwest Virginia Community College 2013 Festival of the Arts: NO LIMITS! You (or Charles Lindbergh) proved that the sky is the only limit!

Sincerely,

Mary W. Lawson
Executive Director
